☐ SBA: All seniors must take the Smarter Balanced ELA and Math test. Students that do not meet standard may complete an alternative Graduation Pathway. Seniors who have not yet met standard on one of these assessments or Graduation Pathways will retake the appropriate assessment Spring 2021. See your counselor for other alternative Graduation Pathway opportunities. These guidelines are subject to change due to state legislation.

☐ SAT or ACT: Four-year college-bound students may take the SAT or ACT. All Washington state colleges and universities are waiving the SAT/ACT test requirements for admission in the 2021-2022 school year. If testing, students are encouraged to take it one or two times. Check college websites to verify the admissions testing requirements.

SAT registration and dates can be found at <http://sat.org/register>

*each school is different- check the school's application to find out what you need.

- An Official Transcript: Students must request a transcript by signing the form located in Canvas FHS Counselor's Corner. Note: It takes 3 days to process requests, so if you need your transcript(s) before the winter break, submit your request at least one week prior to the start of the break.
- A Personal Statement: Tips for writing personal statements are available in the FHS Counseling Center.
- Letters of Recommendation: Students should complete a "Request for Letter of Recommendation" form, located in Canvas FHS Counselor's Corner. Provide a completed

Minimum College Admission Standards

An Overview for Students and Parents

College Academic Distribution Requirement (CADR) Coursework:

CADRs are the requirements that students must complete during high school to meet college admission standards.

College admissions decisions are made by individual colleges, and vary depending on the type of institution and other factors. While high school graduation (or the equivalent) is typically required, meeting high school graduation requirements is not the same as meeting college admissions standards.

What Do Colleges Look For?

A Holistic Review

Academic Preparation & Performance

Colleges look at many factors in reviewing applications for admission. It should be understood that academic preparation and performance are primary. Indicators of preparation and performance include:

- An overall strong level of academic achievement as demonstrated by rigor of curriculum, GPA, standardized test scores and academic distinctions.
- Enrollment in core subjects beyond the minimum required for college entrance. (Core subjects are English, math, science, social studies and foreign language.)
- Taking advantage of college preparatory courses during high school, such as Advanced Placement (AP), Running Start and other meaningful academic choices.
- Taking a rigorous course load during senior year
- Demonstrating a pattern of academic improvement and growth
- Demonstrating habits associated with independent intellectual growth such as self-guided reading, engagement with other cultures or research activities
- Demonstrating exceptional talent and achievement in a specific area(s)

Personal Achievements and Characteristics

In addition to academic preparation and performance, personal achievements and characteristics are also carefully reviewed by college admission counselors. These include:

- Demonstrating a commitment to community service and leadership
- Exercising significant responsibility in a family, community, employment or through activities
- Attaining a college-preparatory education in the face of significant personal adversity, economic disadvantage or disability
- Demonstrating cultural awareness or unique perspectives/experiences
- Demonstrating notable tenacity, insight, originality or creativity

The entire application, including the personal statement, is important in the individual application review. A high degree of care should be evident in both the content and mechanical/grammatical accuracy of all materials.

Note: Colleges are seeing a trend of personal statements written by parents. This is easily recognizable and must be avoided at all costs!

On-the-Job Training: Turn a Job into a Career

Students need to be realistic about the types of jobs that are available and the competition they will face from those with higher education and training.

Employees might be willing to teach someone the technical or job-specific skills needed for the job, but the employer expects the new employee to come prepared with good interpersonal skills.

These skills include the ability to:

- Demonstrate a good work ethic; be dependable, trustworthy, punctual, polite, well-groomed.
- Communicate effectively—both verbally and in writing
- Work as part of a diverse team
- Ability to manage time, money & materials
- Use computers effectively
- Be a self-starter
- Demonstrate leadership skills

Student Job-Hunting Tips

- Network. Tell everyone you're looking for a job. Many positions are filled with friends and relatives of employees.
- Use the FHS Career Center job board or log on to the FHS website – Students – Career Center - Jobs
- Put together a quality resume and cover letter. Learn how to complete applications professionally and completely – make an appointment at the FHS Career Center to get the help you need.
- Ask for letters of recommendation from teachers, counselors, coaches and employers. Complete the “Request a Letter of Recommendation” form. Forms are in the FHS Counseling Center. Provide a copy of the form to at least three recommenders and give them at least three weeks to complete the letter.
- Think about where work opportunities are located. Personally visit and respectfully ask if they are accepting applications.
- Continue to contact the businesses and companies. Inform them of continued interest. Keep an ear out for FHS Career Center field trips like Lunch with Leaders that connect students with local businesses
- Be prepared for an interview. Know something about the company, dress neatly, be punctual, look and act in a professional manner and be confident.

How to complete the FAFSA/WAFSA
High School and Beyond Requirements

What is...

...the FAFSA? The FAFSA is the Free Application for Federal Student Aid; it is the gateway to almost all money to pay for college. This form is used to determine the amount of money (or EFC) a family can “reasonably contribute” to the price of attending a postsecondary institution. The results from the FAFSA are used in the awarding of student grants, work-study, and loans. Apply at <https://fafsa.gov/>

...the WASFA? The WASFA is the Washington Application for State Financial Aid; it is the gateway to state and institutional money to pay for college. This form is used to determine the amount of money (or EFC) a family can “reasonably contribute” to the price of attending a postsecondary institution. The results from the WASFA are used in the awarding of student grants, work-study (if student is DACA), and scholarships. Apply at <http://www.readysetgrad.org/wasfa>

...an FSA ID? This is a Federal Student Aid Identification, which is used to access all Federal Student Aid websites, including the FAFSA website. The FSA ID consists of a user-created Username and Password. The student can create an FSA ID at any point prior to or after starting their FAFSA at <https://fsaid.ed.gov> The student and, if student is dependent, a parent will require an FSA ID to complete the FAFSA. Both student and parent will require a separate, unique email address for their FSA ID; all FSA ID users are strongly encouraged to verify their email address.

...a SAR? The SAR is the Student Aid Report; it is a summary (approximately 5 pages) of all the information entered into the FAFSA/WASFA. The EFC can be found at the top right corner, on the first page of the SAR. Once the FAFSA/WASFA is processed, the student will receive an email stating the Student Aid Report is ready.

...an EFC? The EFC stands for Expected Family Contribution. It is an indicator of a family’s ability to pay towards the student’s education. It is also used by financial offices to determine a student’s eligibility for federal, state, and some institutional financial aid during one school year.
